

BARN HUNT SEMINAR

With Karen Shilliday and Debbie Sherman

Saturday, May 19, 2018

Sponsored by Mt. Nittany Dog Training Club

Penn State Ag Progress Grounds – Horse Barn
2710 West Pine Grove Road (Rt. 45 Gate K)
Pennsylvania Furnace, PA 16865

Introduction and Beginners Barn Hunt Workshop: Setting a good foundation for dogs and handlers! Dogs will begin or advance a positive association with the rats, climbing and reading the bales and Novice tunnel skills. They will also work on building confidence in the find. Handlers will practice good handling and reading their dogs.

Rat Games: To build competition skills! Dogs often respond differently at trials than they do in training. In this workshop we will be using a variety of different games to bring some competitive elements into training exercises. Each game will be designed to help handlers and their dogs build confidence, focus and useful skills for competition. This is for dogs who are working at Open through Masters levels.

Passionate about learning and teaching, it is important to Karen Shilliday and Debbie Sherman to understand the concepts and skills that build confidence. You may find them separately or together teaching children, adults, dogs or horses, the fun of agility, shaping, herding, or tricks to name a few. It is no surprise that these two ladies would team up in the sport of Barn Hunt. They are always looking at the foundational pieces for the activity or job that will help the learner, now and as they advance. Breaking down behaviors to develop confidence and understanding in each dog team is important to them. You will often find this training duo learning from Fenzi online classes, attending Clicker Expos, or on the phone, discussing training ideas to help others enjoy and understand Barn Hunt.
